

Bob,

A buddy of mine has a Fiero that he's getting rid of. I snatched it up from him and am going to try this kit car thing. I looked on your website and I like the prices and the quality described plus pics look good!

I looked over your how to section (by the way amazing job. I bought a DVD and book on how to do it for 15 bucks each and it was worthless compared to yours. Awesome job!!!) ok back to my question. How much are the extension bars and how do I order them? I know it said I could order them from B&B. Or how much weight and tensile strength do they need to hold so I can get the right thing from the metal company by my home town. Thanks again! The more time I spend on your website the more I can't wait to get my hands on the kit or at least the car running and get another step closer to buying the kit.
